Alyssa's adventure into storytelling performance began with a series of sessions as a student of the renowned storyteller Laura Simms— an inspiring mentor. Alyssa has appeared at venues throughout the New York Metropolitan area, including the Caramoor Center for the Arts, The Peekskill Performing and Literary Arts Festival, and NYU Steinhardt's storytelling series. Her repertoire focuses on the great classic fairy tales, which she presented with the arts troupe Singing Harp at the Edinburgh Festival to critical acclaim. Recent projects include recordings of the Andersen tales "The Nightingale," and "The Ugly Duckling;" upcoming productions include recordings of several of the Grimms tales.
